The picture illustrates the $110 Columbia model. Its appearance is dignified and artistic; the shapely cabinet is mounted on casters, and in all the details of finish, this is an exemplary sample of what the best American craftsmanship can produce. It is equipped with the Columbia Individual Record Ejector, the latest word in the many exclusive features possessed by all Columbia Grafonolas. Other models as low as $15.

ASKED FOR FORTY TELEGRAPHERS HERE

Mr. Olin of Madison Asks Men of Draft Age to Join Telegraphers. "We want forty telegraphers for the army from Janesville; that is Janesville's quota of the 25,000 which the army needs." This was the assertion of Mr. Olin of Madison, who has charge of the state vocational schools and especially the course in telegraphy. Mr. Olin has been asked by the draft board to speak to men of the draft age and induce them to join the signal corps to which the telegraphers are attached. The talk was held in the vocational school last night. He asked the men who are now studying telegraphy to get some other men of the draft age to study telegraphy. In reference to the chances for promotion he said: "The men stand a better chance for promotion in the signal corps than in any other branch of service. There are more non-commissioned officers in the signal corps than in any other branch and the pay is somewhat higher." The men who are in the next draft and studying telegraphy will soon receive notice as to where they should go for physical examination, and their going on with the study will depend upon physicians' examination, as it would be useless to continue the study of telegraphy for service in the army if they could not pass the physical examination.

In recognition of their services in rebuilding villages of the Alsace district, Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan, and Mrs. Anna Duke have each been decorated by the French minister of agriculture.

COMMISSION TO FIX 1918 PRICE OF MILK

Commission Meets in Chicago to Consider Prices for Next Year From January to July.

Interest of milk producers of Rock county is at present centered on the findings of the milk investigation committee which began its meetings in Chicago yesterday. From the report of the committee, will be set the price to be paid the producer by the milk dealer and the price to be paid the dealer by the consumer for a term of six months, January 1 to July 1.

The committee is made up of nine representatives from all free parties concerned and will continue their sessions until late in December. All hearings of the commission will be open to the public and any interested person may appear to give testimony. It is not known definitely whether Rock county producers will send a representative, but Secretary Woodruff of the local association of producers has prepared a report of the number of dairy cows in this county and the number of quarts of milk obtainable per day. Information of like nature is in the hands of the commission and it is sure that their price decision will be fair and square and will be based on absolute facts.

Whether the present price paid the producers of $3.22 per hundred will stand is now a question which is up to the commission. If this price is raised it will be found necessary to advance the cost to the consumer accordingly.

Persons wishing to give testimony before the commission must file application in writing with the chairman, John S. Miller of Chicago, stating the time it will take him to state his subject and the day between Dec. 3 and Dec. 20 which he wishes to appear. All evidence given will be carefully considered by the commission.

CHICAGO GRAND OPERA.
The Chicago Opera Association, now in its seventh successful season at the Auditorium Theatre in Chicago, has inaugurated a series of Sunday afternoon performances of Grand Opera with all the star casts of the greatest singing artists of the world. The advantage of this for music lovers in nearby cities is so marked that an explanation of the idea should be convincing. The spacious stage of the Auditorium, completely equipped, offers musical, pictorial values, while its perfect lines of sight and acoustics, give dual advantages for the observer and the listener. The great organization directed by Cleofonte Campanini, with the largest orchestra and the most noted singers, furnish a perfected ensemble that has seldom been attained, and would be quite impossible with a traveling organization.
The plan of giving operatic masterpieces with the quartet singers of the age on Sunday afternoons is in itself unusual, in that you could attend these performances and return home the same day. If time permitted, you might, by taking the Saturday afternoon train, witness the popular priced performance of opera on Saturday evening and remain over night to attend the all-star performance on Sunday afternoon. As the Auditorium Theatre (the largest in the world) and the Auditorium hotel are under the same roof, the convenience of the artistic pilgrimage is alluring.

CHRISTMAS PACKAGES
READY FOR SOLDIERS

First Four Hundred Christmas Gift Packages Are Ready to Be Shipped—Plans Being Made for Second Lot.

The first four hundred of the Christmas gift packages for the soldiers are packed and ready to be shipped, for a committee of ladies under Mrs. A. C. Hough is busily engaged on the second lot of four hundred. They find in going over their books that they are about $500 to complete the amount necessary for this last lot.

But they are not discouraged and have plans in mind whereby they hope to make money in the future. If any people wish to contribute there is time for them to sign cards to put in the packages by Friday. Some cards have been inclosed bearing the name of some who contributed to the home baking sale, and who helped in other ways, besides giving money. Avalon, Footville, Rock Prairie, La Prairie, and Orfordville have contributed funds for this cause.

Henry King prefers directing women stars and children to men stars. They give better opportunities for the "homey" or heart interest touches that make a good picture human and entertaining. He is very much interested in the work of his present star, Mary Miles Minter, and thinks she is one of the best actresses in the business.

For What Shall We
Be Thankful?

AS men we are thankful because these stirring times have given us new visions to brighten those ideals that the routine of daily toil cannot help but dull—and because in the eyes of people standing across the counter from us we see these visions flaming, too—and we realize that we are all of us—men and women alike, fighting or backing a fight for right against might.

AS merchants we are thankful that we have so large a share in the distribution of those things which form the vital and daily needs of our people, and in which honesty of value and suitability of purpose are great agents in the prevention of waste—our worst enemy in this war—streaked days. We are glad to be able to serve so many people of this community and to serve them with an eye single to giving them the best and the most for their money that we know how to get.

AS men and as merchants we are thankful for our opportunities for service—and we pledge ourselves to make this service higher and broader and deeper as the days go on.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MR. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My husband and I seem to have trouble and there seems to be no remedy for our trouble but to part, but I have two children quite small. I have tried to take the advice you give other women, but it doesn't work with him.

He goes around looking mad all the time, and I would like to make a home seem a little happier, but he will say something mean, and I will say something mean, and so it goes.

We were married quite young. Do you think he longs for single life again? He tells other people he would like to go and hunt and trap, but he can't because he is married.

My mother is dead and I have no one to take my children to. Will you tell me some place I could take them to? I have decided to leave, for I know he no longer cares for me, for he has asked me to go. Could I make him pay for the keeping of my children? I have a boy and girl. Could he take either one from me?

A BROKEN HEARTED MOTHER. It is evident your husband is not any happier than you are. Probably your very efforts to make him happier annoy him and make him irritable. This is a very unfortunate condition, but must be met. You can't tell your husband would only get you into worse trouble than you are now, because you would necessarily be separated from your children and could not give them the care that is due them from their mother.

Keep your house as well as you can and prepare the best meals you know how to and can afford. After that is done, you can do more to get to refrain from criticizing your husband for anything he does.

You would not rebel against a rainy day—you might rebel if it but it or all—because you would know you could not change it. You must consider your husband as you would a storm. He has come into your life and you must make the best of him. You can only be happy when you feel the power within yourself to master any situation. Give your life to duty and love your husband as you would love your father. You also have the duty of making a home for your husband, because in your marriage vows you said you would like to be free. He would be very unhappy if he found himself separated from his wife and little children. It would probably be a good thing if he did go off for a hunting trip or a vacation.

If you left your husband you would have to pay for their board, or else get them in a private home and board them. Probably your husband could not be made to help support them, but it is your duty to see that they are taken care of. There is a great chance that one of the children would be taken away from you.

Comparative scores in football furnish an interesting study, but very often lead nowhere. This is especially true in the cases of Pennsylvania and Cornell, those old rivals who meet on Thanksgiving Day. Taking two teams which both have played it well, it is possible to show that Cornell should win by a touchdown or that Penn should win by a decisive score. Both have played Bucknell and Michigan. Against Bucknell the Ithacans and the better work, winning by 20-0, while Penn won, 20-6. There was a difference of one touchdown in these scores and the advantage rested with the Ithacans. Then Cornell met Michigan and was overwhelmed to the extent of 42 to 0, and Penn followed by clearly outplaying the Wolverines and winning, 14 to 0. All of which proves that it is impossible to get a true line on football worth by using comparative scores.

MARY JANE: It is not necessary nowadays for the hostess to urge a caller to come again. Her cordiality, and her prompt return of the visit, imply her wish for a repetition of the call. Individuality should be cultivated. The things which both have played it well, it is possible to show that Cornell should win by a touchdown or that Penn should win by a decisive score. Both have played Bucknell and Michigan. Against Bucknell the Ithacans and the better work, winning by 20-0, while Penn won, 20-6. Very young people, and people who rot or grow sour instead of mellowing with the years, are the only successful haters. You must see life narrowly to have unqualified hates.

As you begin to see life more broadly you see it more indulgently. There is more of grey and less of black in the picture.

So Many Things Interfere With Your Hates. So many things intervene to prevent your getting and keeping a good thorough hate on anyone.

Or you have one successfully established, you find that, though the object of your hate is despicable in one direction, he shows compensating qualities in others that command your reluctant respect.

Or you have to admit to yourself that there are conditions that have made him what he is.

Do not indulge in unmitigated hatred by finding him doing something really decent.

I Once Had A Beautiful Hate. I once had a well grounded hate. I was buying a horse and buggy and asked a neighbor whose business pertained to horses, to advise me. I paid him well to spend an afternoon looking at the horses for me. He thereupon persuaded me into buying a buggy for which I paid seventy-five dollars and which was of such peculiar construction that I had to pay for repairs for eight months.

My Dog Loved Him. And then I lost my hate for I found out that he was deeply attached to all dogs and that (a greater recommendation) my dog loved him. So I couldn't unqualifiedly hate him any more.

Hate is a form of self indulgence. There is no question but that one can get a certain pleasure out of hating. There is an excitement to it. It is really a sort of mental stimulant.

But no real stimulant could be any worse for anyone. No person who wants to be efficient can afford to get into the habit of taking it. And no self respecting person will want to.

Letters of Two Women

KATE COMES HOME TO POETS.

NEW YORK, Tuesday Night. Maize Dear: Why aren't mothers exactly as the sentimental ballads picture them—dear old gentle, white-haired angels, radiating love and mignon ples? Mere hearts to take refuge in; shoulders to cry on? Why must they be so unfeeling and have views and ideas and force and character to express them? Mothers should be merely backgrounds. They insist upon being personalities.

Seriously, darling, I hope with all my heart that events developed so that you have not had to send your mother back east. If it has come to her to tell you that I shall borrow if she could understand how I felt to-night when I came home from a week's visit to a friend in Jersey, Mrs. Andley, a shrewd, sensible and married to a million dollars.

I had not told Paul I was coming. I thought it would be fun to surprise him. Well, I did. The train was late and I didn't get to the house until past 11. I opened the door softly and as I stole down the hall I heard voices, male voices.

My dear, get this picture: On the living room floor was a pile of sofa pillows—my flowered, chintz pillows—made by hand—and reposing peacefully thereon was a youth, asleep. All I could see of him was a tumbled head of curly blond hair, a bare forehead, and a pair of eyes that looked like a crumpled shirt with atrocious stripes.

On the couch was another figure clad in pink kimono. This figure was sitting on the edge of the divan, singing at the top of his lungs and removing its boots. In the kitchen I heard the clatter of a glass, the sound of sizzling on the gas range. Going to the kitchen door I saw a red-headed looking person with wild hair and flowing necktie cooking bacon and eggs.

Paul turned, saw me, and rushed to take me in his arms. "Why, dear!" he cried, knocking my hat askew and crumpling me untidily, "what—when—how—why?" he gasped. Then he started to present his friends, Ludovic de Halcerone, one of my college pals, whom I stumbled over by lucky chance to-night at Peggy's restaurant. Ludovic is the greatest poet since Shakespeare.

I tried to be cordial to Ludovic, but in my soul I wished his finger nails had been cleaner. As I have said, he is a great poet. Paul, who is a poet too, has a lot of trouble and lost his money. And Rafaelo has been doing some wonderful writing, prose and poetry both. He's a waiter over at Petrozzi's. But the world will hear of him yet, won't it, Raff, old son?"

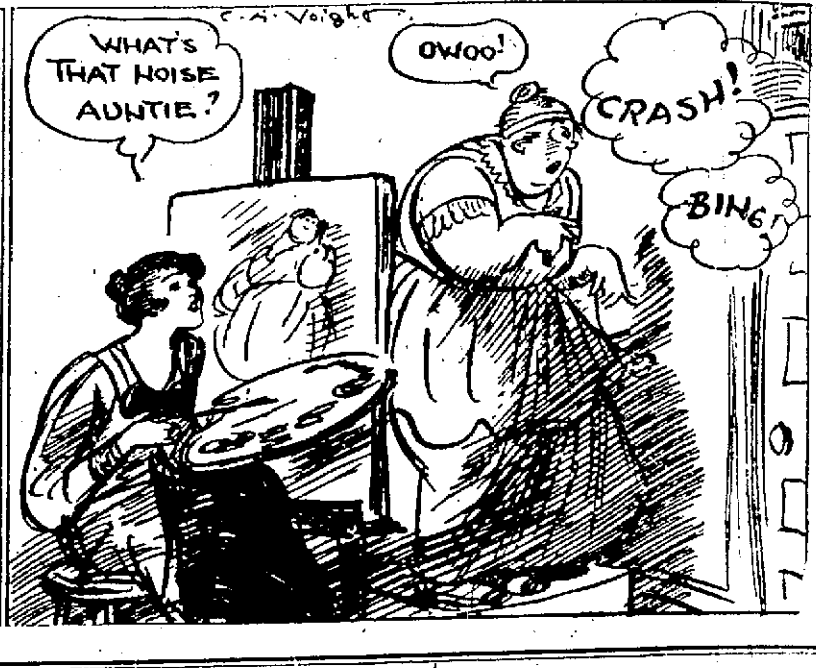

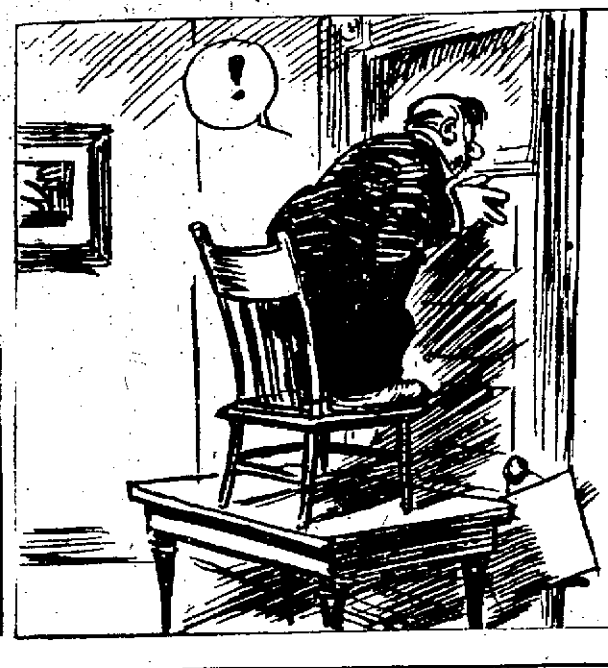

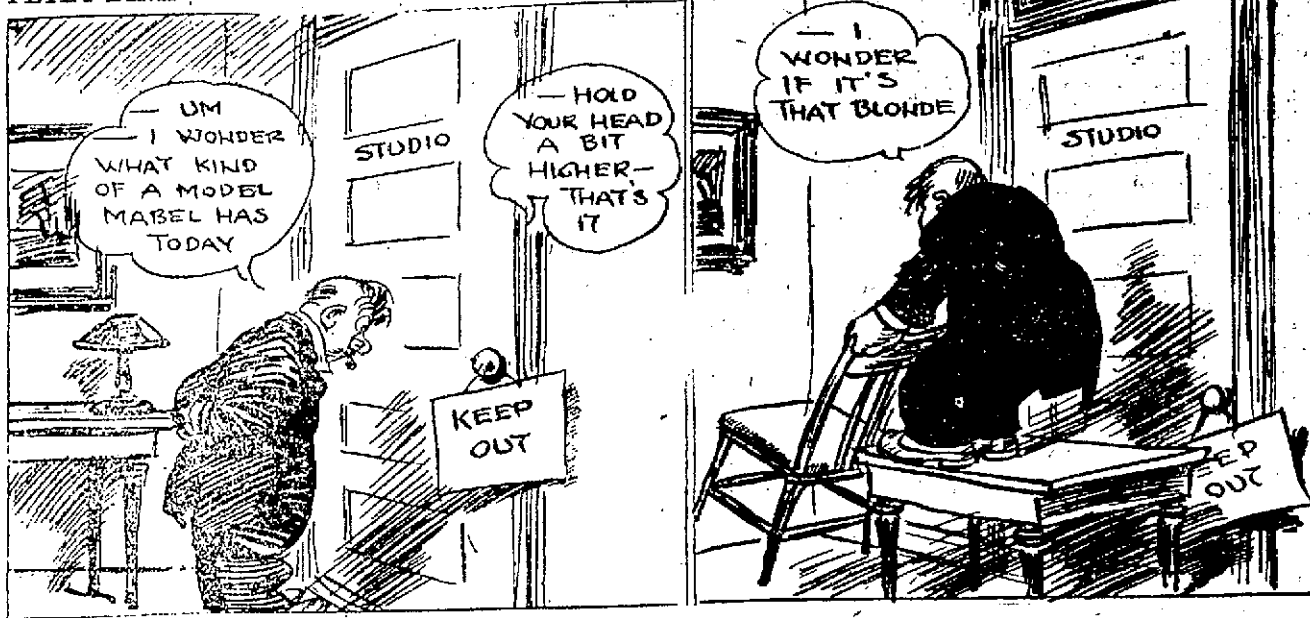

"Kate, darling, I wouldn't have told the boys home with me this way if I'd any idea you would blow in tonight."

Of course there was a lot more, Maize; I won't bore you with it all. The fact was simply that Paul, in the goodness of his heart, had supposed they were terribly wonderful and everything, but, oh Maize, I did have such a feeling of mistiness or something about the whole thing. Of course I was on their staying.

We managed somehow. But, dear, I was so glad when they went. Paul is a darling, but he is so—so different from me. I mean just what I mean. Write me soon. Your same old KATIE.

PETEY DINK—THE CRASH CAME WHEN PETEY SAW THE MODEL.

Oasis Made to Order.

In the desert stretch between El Centro and Yuma, down in the southeast corner of California, engineers made a new oasis the other day. They just bored a hole in the ground, and up came the revivifying waters. Then a few date seeds were dropped into the soil, and a few vegetables planted, and they will have an oasis made to order.

ARE PROPRIETARY MEDICINES FRAUDULENT?

(Undoubtedly, they may be some that are, but on the other hand, there are many proprietary remedies that are as standard as any prescription that any present day physician can write, and in thousands of homes you will find these old, reliable remedies in every day use with satisfactory results. Such a medicine is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for nearly 40 years has been alleviating the suffering of woman-kind, and overcoming some of the most serious ailments of her sex. If you are suffering from any of the ailments of women, just give this medicine a trial and prove its worth for yourself. Advertisement.

THE BEST PROOF

Given by a Janesville Citizen.

Doan's Kidney Pills were used—their benefit brought.

The story was told to Janesville residents.

Time has strengthened the evidence. It has proven the result lasting. The testimony is home testimony. The proof convincing.

It can be investigated by Janesville residents.

Mrs. Mollus, 314 North Academy St., Janesville, says: "I was suffering from an attack of kidney trouble. I went to the People's Drug Co., and got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills. One or two boxes cured me."

No Trouble Since.

Over four years later, Mrs. Mollus said: "I haven't had any trouble from my kidneys since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me."

Price 80c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Mollus has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

HEALS RUNNING SORES AND CONQUERS PILES

Also Stops Itching of Eczema Almost Instantly.

"I feel it my duty to write you a letter of thanks for your wonderful Peterson's Ointment. I had a running sore on my left leg for one year. I began to use Peterson's Ointment three weeks ago and now it is healed."—A. C. Gilbrath, 703 Reed St., Erie, Pa.

I'd rather get a letter like that, says Peterson, than have John D. Rockefeller give me a thousand dollars. It doesn't make a lot of good to be able to be of use to my fellow men.

For years I have been selling through druggists a large box of PETERSON'S OINTMENT for 25 cents. The healing power in this ointment is marvelous. Eczema goes in a few days. Old sores heal up like magic. Piles that other remedies do not seem to even relieve are speedily conquered. Pimples and nasty blackheads disappear in a week. Peterson's Ointment 30 cents after December 1st.

He bowed low to her three times—very low indeed and very slowly, for he had to think. Then he turned his back and repeated the obeisance to the crowd.

"My brothers," he said, and his voice became that of a man whose advice has been asked, and who gives it freely. "Ye saw this night how one man entered here on the strength of an oath and a promise. All he lacked was proof. And I had proof. Ye saw! How easy would it not have been, had I thrown that head to you, for a traitor to catch it and hide it in his clothes, and make away with it! He could have used it to admit to these caves—why—even an Englishman, my brothers! If that had happened, ye would have blamed me!"

Yasmin smiled, taking its cue from her, the crowd murmured, scarcely aware, but their recognition of the assassin's adroitness. The game was not won; there lacked a touch to tip the scales in his favor, and Yasmin supplied it with ready genius.

"The hakim speaks the truth!" she laughed.

King turned about instantly to face her, but he saluted so low that she could not have seen his expression had she tried.

"If ye wish it, I will order him tossed into Earth's Drink after those other three."

Muhammad Anim rose, stroking his beard and rocking where he stood.

"It is the law!" he growled, and King shuddered.

"It is the law," Yasmin answered in a voice that rang with pride and intolerance. "That none interrupt me while I speak! For such ill-mannered ones Earth's Drink hangers! Will you test my authority, Muhammad Anim? Think ye! If that head had only fallen into Muhammad Anim's lap, the mullah might have smuggled in another man with it!"

A roar of laughter greeted that thrust. Many men who had not laughed at the mullah's first discomfiture joined in now. Muhammad Anim sat and fidgeted, meeting nobody's eye and answering nothing.

"So it seems to me good," Yasmin said, in a voice that did not echo any more but rang very clear and true (she seemed to know the trick of the roof, and to use the echo or not as she chose). "To let this hakim live! He shall meditate in his cave a while, and perhaps he shall be beaten, lest he dare offend again. He can no more escape from Khinjan caves than the women who are prisoners here. He may therefore live!"

There was utter silence. Men looked at one another and at her, and her blazing eyes searched the crowd swiftly. It was plain enough that there were at least two parties there, and that none dared oppose Yasmin's will for fear of the others.

"To thy seat, Kurram Khan!" she ordered, when she had waited a full minute and no man spoke.

He wasted no time. He hurried out of the arena as fast as he could walk, with Ismail and Darya Khan close at his heels. Ismail overtook him, seized him by the shoulders, hugged him, and dragged him to the empty seat next to the Orakzal Pathan. There he hugged him until his ribs cracked.

"Ready o' wit!" he crowed. "Ready o' tongue! Light o' life! Man after mine own heart! Hey, I love thee! Ready! I would be thy man, but for being hers! Turned the joke on Muhammad Anim! Turned it against his enemy and raised a laugh against him from his own men! Ready o' wit! Shameless one! Lucky one! Allah was surely good to thee!"

"Have they taken All Masjid fort?" King whispered.

"Nay, how should I know? Ask her! She knows more than any man knows!"

King turned to ask the same question of his friend the Orakzal Pathan; but the Pathan would have none of his questions, he was busy listening for whispers from the crowd, watching with both eyes, and he shoved King aside.

The crowd was very far from being satisfied. An angry murmur had begun to fill the cavern as a hive is filled with the song of bees at time. But even so, surprise what one might, it was not easy to persuade the eye that Yasmin's careless smile and easy pose were assumed. If she recognized indignation against her, she disguised her fear amazingly. Languidly, languidly, she raised both arms until she looked like an angel poised for flight. The little jewels stitched to her gauzy dress twinkled like fireflies as she moved. The crowd gasped sharply. She had it by the heart-strings.

She called, and four guards got under one shield, bowing their heads and resting the great rim on their shoulders. They carried it to her and stood still. With a low delicious laugh, sweet and true, she sprang on it, and the shield scarcely trembled; she seemed lighter than the silk her dress was woven from!

They carried her so, and in the midst of the arena before they had ceased moving she began to sing, with her head thrown back and bosom swelling like a bird's.

The East would ever rather draw its own conclusions from a hint left fall than be puzzled by what the West believes are facts. And parables are not good evidence in courts of law, which is always a consideration. So her song took the form of a parable.

And to say that she took hold of them and played rhapsodies of her own making on their heartstrings would be to undervalue what she did. They were dumb while she sang, but they rose at her. Not a force in the world could have kept them down, for she was deftly touching cords that stirred other forces—subtle, mysterious, mesmerizing, which the old East understands—which Muhammad the prophet understood when he harnessed evil in the shafts with men and wrote rules for their driving in a book. They rose in silence and stood tense.

She sang of a wolf-pack gathering from the valleys in the winter snow—a very hungry wolf-pack. Then of a stalled ox, grown very fat from being cared for. Of the "Heart of the Hills" that awoke in the womb of the "Hills," and that listened and watched.

"Now, is she the Heart of the Hills?" King wondered. The rumors men had heard and told again in India, about the "Heart of the Hills" in Khinjan seemed to have foundation.

He thought of the strange knife, wrapped in a handkerchief under his shirt, with its bronze blade and gold hilt in the shape of a woman dancing. The woman dancing was astonishingly like Yasmin, standing on the shield!

She sang about the owners of the stalled ox, who were busy at bay, defending themselves and their ox from another wolf-pack in another direction "far beyond."

She urged them to wait a little while. The ox was big enough and fat enough to nourish all the wolves in the world for many seasons. Let them wait, then, until another, greater wolf-pack joined them, that they might go hunting all together, overwhelm its present owners and devour the ox! So urged the "Heart of the Hills," speaking to the mountain wolves, according to Yasmin's song.

The little cubs in the burrows know. Are ye grown wolves, who hurry so?

She paused, for effect; but they gave tongue then because they could not help it, and the cavern shook to their terrific worship.

"Allah! Allah!"

They summoned God to come and see the height and depth and weight of their allegiance to her! And because for their thunder there was no more chance of being heard, she dropped from the shield like a blossom. No sound of falling could have been heard in all that din, but one could see she made no sound. The shield bearers ran back to the bridge and stood below it, eyes agape.

Rewa Gunga spoke truth in Delhi when he assured King he should some day wonder at Yasmin's dancing.

She became joy and bravery and youth! She danced a story for them of the things they knew. She was the dawn light, touching the distant peaks. She was the wind that follows it, sweeping among the junipers and kissing each as she came. She was laughter, as the little children laugh when the cattle are loosed from the byres at last to feed in the valleys. She was the scent of spring uprising. She was blossom. She was fruit! Very daughter of the sparkle of warm sun on snow, she was the "Heart of the Hills" herself!

Let's Look Ahead!

"Let's look ahead! The harvest is over and we've all had a good season—bully! We've tried to do our duty by Uncle Sam and we've made money besides. But we've got to look ahead to next year, now, and make up our minds what new buildings we want." That's what wise farmers are saying.

400,000 Cartons or 175 Tons of Tobacco

have already been distributed in France under the direction of the Red Cross, to American troops at the points most needed. This enormous quantity represents $100,000 in money donated by American people through the "Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund."

There is an ever growing demand for tobacco as additional troops go over seas, so that there must be a constant flow of money to the tobacco headquarters.

With the approval of Mr. Baker, Secretary of War, and of Mr. Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, a society, "Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund," has been organized. Every cent given to this fund will be expended upon tobacco for American soldiers and sailors in France. Twenty-five cents will send a package, and will provide the soldier or sailor with a postal card addressed to the giver, on which to express his thanks.

It requires no imagination to picture how welcome these packages will be. Who, that thinks of the trenches, who, that reads even the headlines of an evening paper, can smoke his own pipe, cigar or cigarette, with any sensation but that of shame at his own gross selfishness, unless it shall bring to his mind some soldier in the trenches smoking tobacco that he has sent?

This Society is organizing throughout the Nation a patriotic effort to send these packages to our soldiers and sailors, partly for the sake of our fighting men and partly to save smokers at home from the shame of being seen smoking while our men at the front go without.

The headquarters of this Society are at 25 West 44th Street, New York. A dollar will supply a soldier with tobacco for a month. Here is our opportunity to give, as it were, a handshake and a God-bless-you to our brave men. They will give us their all; we give them a little tobacco. But it will be a comfort to think of that smoke curling up out of the cannon-shaken trenches, and to know that they know we are thinking of them.

Every four people, by chipping in twenty-five cents apiece, can send one dollar, and that one dollar will send one package from each of the four contributors.

He that gives quickly gives double.

ALLEN B. WEST, Director

Question: When is the best time to apply lime to the land, and how should it be done? Will it be beneficial to corn land?

Answer: Lime should always be applied previous to planting the crop which is to receive the benefit of it. To be most effective it should be applied to plowed land and thoroughly worked in by harrowing. Either in winter or spring applications may be made on clay soils, but on light soils spring application is preferable so as to prevent leaching which may occur on this type of soil.

This is the advice given in Wisconsin Bulletin 230 on Soil Acidity and Liming. As to the method, that depends on the convenience at hand and the condition of the lime. Any form of lime which is damp enough to prevent blowing can be spread very well with a shovel directly from the wagon. If one wishes to apply it at the rate of two tons to the acre, every square rod should receive about 25 pounds, which is equal to about two roundings shovelful.

Good refuse lime may be obtained quite cheaply from the sugar beet factory, and farmers who do not live too far away will find it to their advantage to use this. If this is damp it will require about four and one-half roundings shovelfuls to the square rod. The time is dry and fine it is almost impossible to spread it satisfactorily from the wagon. A manure spreader is sometimes used and by setting it at its lowest gear and distributing the lime evenly on top of a thin layer of manure spread over the bottom of the box to hold it in.

Bulletin No. 230 says: "It is not good practice to mix burnt lime with manure. The caustic properties of these forms of lime give them the ability to hasten the destruction of organic matter, hence mixing them with manure will cause excessive losses of the fertility, especially of the nitrogen contained in the manure. Ground limestone, marl, and ground shells, on the other hand, are not mixed and applied with the manure with no appreciable harm."

Corn land does not need oil as corn will grow in acid soil. However, there seems to be some connection between acidity and the availability of phosphorus, which is needed for corn, and keeping a soil in a non-acid condition by the use of some form of lime will in all probability result in maintaining a supply of available phosphorus, so that indirectly the corn may be benefited by the use of lime. This is especially true if corn follows clover in the rotation, for clover cannot be grown from the air in an acid soil, and corn needs both phosphorus and nitrogen. Lime not only sweetens the soil but liberates phosphorus.

There is a great deal of acid soil in Rock county and the farmers of this vicinity could not do better than to follow the example of their neighbors in Green county, in the matter of developing sources of limestone easily available to the farmers. In Green county some 15 or 20 large quarries have been opened for the purpose of supplying limestone to the farmers.

As fast as the limestone is mined it is ground into suitable fineness for application to the soil. This is done by a building contractor with a pulverizer which he moves from quarry to quarry, thus saving long hauls for the farmers who desire to get the limestone. The contractor charges from $1.50 to $3 a ton for the crushing and expects to spend most of his time this fall and winter in the work.

Owners of the quarries realizing the value of the limestone to the community, have agreed to charge little or nothing for the use of the material. There are many limestone quarries in the vicinity of Janesville and such a movement in this county would result in very great benefit to its farms.

VALUABLE BOOK FOR DISTRIBUTION

Diary a Permanent Record Made on Scene of Action.

The Daily Gazette has arranged to distribute the Soldiers-Sailors Diary and English-French Dictionary, a splendid book for the boys in camp or at the front.

A diary fixes the time and place of important, pleasing, tragic or humorous events. It is the most important record in the life of an individual. Diaries, in the great war, have become most popular books second only in demand to English-French dictionaries. A happy thought after a trip to the front caused a publisher to return and seek to meet the demand for these two books by producing a combination of the two.

Such a book has now appeared and the newspapers of the United States and Canada are lending aid in its distribution. It is called The Soldiers-Sailors Diary and English-French Dictionary and meets with enthusiastic approval wherever it is seen.

"I shall see that every man in my troop has one of these books," said a captain of cavalry. "Every man should learn French before he crosses the ocean and if he is as alive as a soldier is supposed to be, he will want to fix definitely in mind the exact date of every important event in this war."

The Soldiers-Sailors Diary and English-French Dictionary is being distributed on a coupon plan explained elsewhere in this paper. The book, while a soldier's necessity, proves invaluable to everybody.

"I shall see that every man in my troop has one of these books," said a captain of cavalry. "Every man should learn French before he crosses the ocean and if he is as alive as a soldier is supposed to be, he will want to fix definitely in mind the exact date of every important event in this war."

The Soldiers-Sailors Diary and English-French Dictionary is being distributed on a coupon plan explained elsewhere in this paper. The book, while a soldier's necessity, proves invaluable to everybody.

NO SOLICITATION WILL BE ALLOWED IN FACTORIES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 28.—The elimination of soliciting of subscriptions to funds of one kind or another among factory or shop-workers is the kind of a plan under consideration by several factory managers in Wisconsin. The plan contemplates the creation of standing funds for each group of workers, to be distributed by committees in charge, and maintained by a certain number of extra hours of work put in by each man each month. The plan has been brought forward by M. F. Blumenfeld, state superintendent of public property, who intends using it with modifications, among state employees.

TO CONSERVE BARLEY FOR FATTENING OF SWINE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Appleton, Wis., Nov. 28.—Farmers near here are behind a movement to conserve all efforts and conserve barley for feeding hogs. The value of a large part of the food value of barley is lost when used by breweries and many farmers have combined to keep their barley—or at least a part of it—for swine fattening.

WOMEN AND GIRLS TO WORK ON THE FARMS

Madison, Wis., Nov. 28.—When three classes of people—retired farmers, unemployed boys in villages and cities and women and girls—have been mobilized and trained for service the problem of producing more food will at least be partially solved.

This is the answer given to the labor question by H. C. Taylor, agricultural economist in the University of Wisconsin and a practical dairy farmer as well. In his opinion, the farm labor problem is the most serious question which confronts American agriculture today. We need to produce more food than formerly and the farms must spare an important fraction of their labor force to go to the front and to the munition factories. In consequence the American farmer is confronted with a problem of having few people to do much work, or of mobilizing some latent forces.

"The retired farmer should look upon himself as part of the nation's agricultural reserve," declares Mr. Taylor. He estimates that there are a million of these men who are capable of doing a very great amount of farm work. Some of them are more or less disabled and are unsuited for the heavy work of the farm, but are skilled in the driving of horses and in the handling of machinery.

The greatest difficulty in utilizing for farm labor the unemployed boys of the villages and the cities is, according to Mr. Taylor, that they are unskilled in the work of the farm, rarely possess the work habit and all too often have highly sumptuary habits. Where the conditions are favorable these boys, he believes, can be used to the benefit of the boys, the farmers and the cause of liberty. Mr. Taylor expresses a confidence that farm life and farm labor will best equip them for duty at the front, if in a few years they are called upon for military service.

"The best way to use these boys is to place them with mature men, who have the patience to train them and who know what to expect in the way of results," continued Mr. Taylor. "If each retired farmer would hunt up a pal in the form of a high school boy and work with him all summer on a farm he would be doing double service for his country. The most serious objection to the high school boys on the part of the farmer is their excessive demand for wages. They are apprentices and should be willing to work for small compensation, but they are usually vigorous advocates of high wages and short hours."

"The women and girls can help greatly in the present and future emergency. In the typical farm the farmer and his team spends a very short day in the field. With chores to do the time the farmer can spend in the field is sometimes greatly reduced, which means that horses and implements are idle too much of the time. The solution is simple, and it must willingly sacrifice. Let women help with the chores and leave the men in the fields for a ten hour day. How can a woman render a greater service?"

A SUCCESSFUL TRACTOR

THE WORLD DEMANDS MORE FARM TRACTORS

Every Successful Tractor Plant Crowded With Orders—

AN INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY

The Monarch Tractor Co.

Watertown, Wisconsin

Capital $500,000.00

Is a substantial successful paying manufacturing plant, building high grade tractors that are standardized machines, recognized throughout the world. The company has an Established Trade at home and Abroad. Repeat orders for machines are coming in large volumes and the plant has been working to capacity.

In order to take care of the increasing business the company desires to enlarge their factory and equipment. This is your opportunity to quickly investigate and get an interest in a successful growing business with its future before it. There never was a better opportunity to make a safe and very profitable investment. They have the best of bank references.

Backed by seven years' experience building track-laying farm tractors. This company is crowding production to the limit, yet they cannot begin to take care of the business that is offered to them.

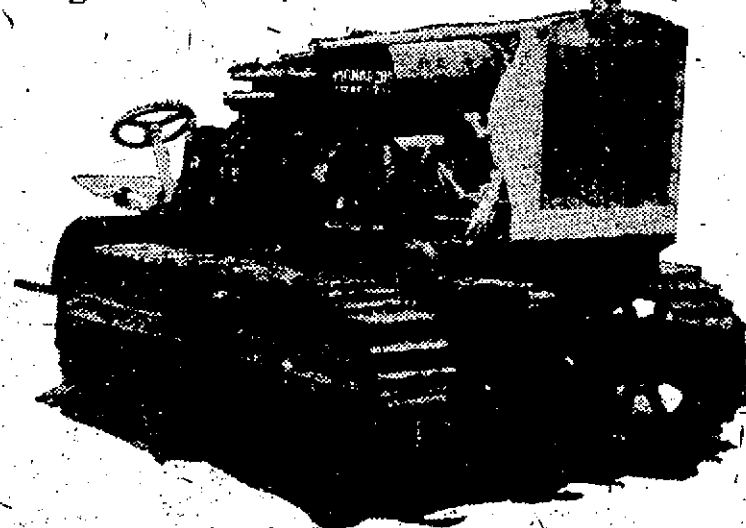

This type of tractor has been developed by this company to a standardized commercial product. The machines are equipped with heavy duty, slow speed, special tractor motors that are being operated on kerosene successfully, and will work under the most adverse conditions.

The purpose and accomplishment of the MONARCH TRACTOR COMPANY has been to build a tractor that would prove profitable and satisfactory to their customers, as well as a credit to their factory. They have built up a large business on the merit and quality of its tractors. They have been able to keep their factory working to capacity without extensive advertising, therefore, this tractor has not been exploited through a widespread advertising campaign as some of the newer makes placed on the market.

In considering an investment in property of this kind you do not take any of the risks of the experimental or development stages, which new companies must go through before they have a standard commercial product.

INVESTIGATE NOW.

We have purchased and offer the unsold portion of $100,000.00 of the Capital Stock of the Monarch Tractor Company. For information address Eugene F. Yahr, 932 First Nat'l Bank Bldg. Milwaukee, Wis.

30-18 H. P. "Never Slip" Tractor
The Tractor of "Constant Service"

It will work on loose, wet or soft land without miring down. It does not pack the soil.

Consider the importance of the tractor in meeting the national food crisis with less labor, from the following standpoint:

1. The tractor will do all the heavy work in season.
2. It will do the work as it should be done—plow deep, work day or night, the "NEVER-SLIP" works in all kinds of weather.
3. Its first cost is less than its equivalent horse power in horse flesh.
4. It will do the same work cheaper.
5. Does away with the hired labor problem to a large extent.
6. Keeps the boys on the farm.
7. Requires less attention than horses and cuts down on chores.
8. Does belt work as well as field work.

"LITERARY DIGEST" SAYS:

"The farm tractor, the biggest contribution to Agriculture, greater than the McCormick's invention of the Reaper in 1831, will work a sweeping revolution in soil tillage."

"WE FACE THE DAWN OF AN INDUSTRY WHICH WILL BE AS BIG OR BIGGER THAN THAT OF THE AUTOMOBILE—THE BUILDING OF FARM TRACTORS."

The Department of Agriculture has begun to mobilize every idle or available tractor in the United States to help solve the mammoth problem of feeding the war-torn world. Mechanical power on the farm is coming into its own with an irresistible rush.

Today the farm tractor occupies much the same position as did the automobile eight or ten years ago. Farmers have now come to realize that the tractor is an investment and not an expense. Distributors and implement dealers are pushing the sale of tractors throughout the country.

Dependable tractors have come to stay! The tractor on the farm today is more of a necessity than the automobile. They mean a big saving to the farmer, say nothing of the advantage of getting the crops in the ground in time.

Our leading agricultural colleges in the various states have demonstrated the value of deeper plowing to increase our crop yields. With the present high prices for small grain the farmers are increasing their acreage, and particularly in the northwest wheat growing districts, where the season is very late and the time is short to get their crops in in the spring, the NEVER-SLIP tractor will work when the frost is coming out of the ground and when the melting snows leave the land in a condition where a round wheel tractor or animal power cannot be used to advantage. This means a big outlet for NEVER-SLIP tractors, as against competing lines.

Evansville News

Evansville, Nov. 28.—Last evening the play for the benefit of the local Red Cross Society was given before another packed house. From the riser act, the huge audience was in enraptured approval and accord with the tireless and the players. This was evidenced by the rounds of applause. The entire cast covered themselves with glory for the play was, if anything, given with more "snap" than the previous evening. Between on a Rev. G. R. Lawrence, one of the "four minute men," gave a talk on patriotism. Before the last act, R. M. Richmond appeared before the footlights, bringing with him Rev. Father McDermott, who has had the direction and charge of this play, and voiced the gratitude and appreciation of the Red Cross organization, for his loyalty and zealous work in the society's behalf. And in a neat presentation speech, gave Father McDermott a gold Red Cross Pin. This play and the recent drive for donations has netted the Evansville branch of the American Red Cross Society, between $600 and $1,000. To all who have responded so liberally, and have worked untiringly to the Holmes Orchestra, untiringly to the Holmes Orchestra, who rendered such inspiring music both evenings, and to the young people of the play, who have given their time and effort, the Red Cross Society wish to extend to them a vote of thanks.

Proceeds Prof Firemen's Dance Presented to Red Cross Society
The Firemen's dance given last Friday evening, was a complete success in every detail. From eight until nine a concert was rendered by the George Hatch Orchestra of Janesville, that was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. From nine until two o'clock the orchestra rendered delightful music for dancing. This year 184 tickets were sold, and the amount collected was $180.35. The expenses amounted to $30.35, leaving a net profit of $150.00. Before this party, committees from both the Hose and the Hook and Ladder companies met and agreed to give the proceeds to the local Red Cross organization. This was accordingly done. The Evansville branch of the American Red Cross takes this means of expressing a vote of thanks to the Evansville fire companies for their generosity and patriotism.

Both the house and the furniture were insured.

Thanksgiving

WE are once more called upon by our President to observe our great national holiday. And all of us should heed this summons. This year, in particular, it is our duty to appreciate the many blessings bestowed upon us and to give thanks for them.

It may seem that in the midst of this great war that our causes for Thanksgiving are few. But think of the reasons you have for giving thanks—and think of our reasons as a nation. Our President's proclamation clearly shows that, even in these trying times, we have a great many things to give thanks for. We should all of us observe this day and celebrate it in accordance with time honored custom.

This store will be closed all day on Thanksgiving. We are truly thankful and intend to observe the day. Please accept our sincere wishes for a happy Thanksgiving Day.
